EUROPEAN RESEARCH UNIVERSITY

The European Research University is a non-governmental, non-profit institution founded on the principles of openness, inclusivity, equality, and respect for individual needs. The educational experience at ERUNI is highly personalised, with students being actively engaged in research from their undergraduate studies onwards. The number of students admitted to the University is deliberately limited, as applicants undergo a rigorous multi-round admission process in which their research aptitude is assessed.

Research activities, and their integration with teaching in the accredited study programmes, remain a central focus of the institution. ERUNI offers accredited Bachelor's, Master's, and Doctoral degree programmes taught entirely in English, including Economy and Management, Economic Policy and Public Administration, and Managerial Economics. Each programme combines a strong theoretical foundation with practical research experience, preparing graduates for leadership and analytical roles across both the public and private sectors.

In addition to its strong research orientation, ERUNI is distinguished by a high level of internationalisation, which permeates both its teaching and broader activities, particularly in the field of research. The University maintains collaborations with academic institutions worldwide, and its researchers are regularly involved in international research teams – including those operating within ERUNI's own network of university research hubs, the European Research College, based in London and other European cities.

In order to facilitate access to higher education, ERUNI operates on a non-profit basis and provides a scholarship programme that, under certain conditions, can cover up to 100% of the costs associated with study. This scholarship initiative is designed to ensure equal access to education for students regardless of their financial or social background.

RECOGNISED TEACHING CENTRE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

European Research University (ERUNI) is proud to be one of the University of London's Recognised Teaching Centres, bringing its prestigious education to a local level worldwide. Studying through the recognised teaching centre (RTC) provides a unique learning opportunity that combines the best of online and face-to-face learning. As part of a global network of RTCs, ERUNI offers its students the support of a traditional university environment and facilities, the chance to network, make friends, become a community member, and participate not only in classes but also in numerous extracurricular activities. At the same time, we enable students to benefit from full-time studies based on modern didactic methods, which convey not only knowledge but also essential skills that cannot be acquired through online learning, ensuring graduates' employability in further studies or professional life. We are here for all students who desire a prestigious University of London's education, have the motivation to learn and succeed, but cannot travel for their education for various reasons.
